

THE 1998 HGTV DREAM HOME THE BERMUDA BLUFF

ST. HELENA ISLAND, SOUTH CAROLINA

The Bermuda Bluff was designed by Allison Ramsey Architects in response to a desire to create architecture that reflected traditional styles, designs, and materials. Coastal Living, having published many plans, Coastal Living was familiar with the traditional styles of Allison Ramsey homes, and Home and Garden Television chose this house plan to be HGTV's 1998 Dream Home.

COASTAL LIVING MAGAZINE 2002 "BEST OF THE COAST DESIGN" 710 BOUNDARY STREET BEAUFORT, SOUTH CAROLINA

This building serves as an effective transition from suburban buildings to the pedestrian friendly business district downtown. As a result of traditional details such as operable shutters, dormer windows, and French doors, this 10,000 square foot structure maintains a welcoming scale.

The architect opted for a respectful new design that capitalized on its glorious waterfront setting and defers to the historic district, live oaks, adjacent green space, and the landmark curve that introduces visitors to historic Beaufort.

Southern Living OPEN HOUSE 2003 THE SHADOWLAWN

OLDFIELD, SOUTH CAROLINA

Throughout the coastal regions of the South, houses gain a welcoming, casual appeal, designed to take advantage of coastal breezes as well as provide protection from the sun. Deep porches and verandas with open rafter tails and metal roofs are all incorporated in Shadowlawn, one of Southern Living's 2003 Open House designs.
